

Erasmus+ Teaching Mobility Offer

The Department of European Studies at the University of Wrocław is inviting our distinguished colleagues from the partner Universities to carry out Teaching Mobilities in our unit.

Our offer is intended for Academics who deal with widely defined European Studies. That includes specialists in International Relations, Political Sciences, Sociology, Geography, History, Security Studies and other relevant fields. If you would like to share your knowledge and experience with students and academics from one of the oldest universities in Poland and explore Wrocław, the charming city of a hundred bridges, we would happily host you!

At the Department of European Studies, we believe that our success depends on the great people who work with us. That is why we wish to maintain constant contact with scientists from all over the world with whom we can share our knowledge, skills, and perspectives on European and global matters. The academic year in Poland starts in October and lasts until mid July. Nevertheless, our invitation has a permanent character.

What do we offer?

An opportunity to take an Erasmus+ teaching mobility at one of the best public universities in Poland. Meetings with specialists with similar fields of interests to yours at specially organised seminars or during individual meetings. Networking. Open access to the libraries. An office at your disposal during the mobility. Any other necessary assistance and a great atmosphere. 😊

How to apply?

Please send your application e-mail to jakub.bornio@uwr.edu.pl and provide us with a short bio and all your expectations. Please keep in mind that we are flexible.
